Imagine waking up to the sound of the water, stepping onto your rooftop terrace as the sun rises over the ocean, and knowing that everything around you was made to last and meant to feel like home. That's the life Villa Sol was built for. This brand-new beachfront residence in Nassau is something rare – a place where European craftsmanship meets the ease of Caribbean living. Every material was thoughtfully imported from Spain, and you can feel that care in every room. The villa offers three plus bedrooms across 4,651 square feet, with 3,127 square feet of beautifully appointed, air-conditioned living space. A generous 932-square-foot covered veranda invites long, lazy afternoons, while the 592-square-foot second floor terrace becomes your private perch above the sea – perfect for morni...read more on our website.
